Battery storage is a really important part of the renewable energy solution. If you are producing more than you use over the years, it's a very economical prospect. Power appliances at the times when the electric is high cost, and there is no sun.

To meet Europe's decarbonisation goals, battery storage can play a crucial role by storing excess energy, typically sourced from renewables such as solar power. This stored energy can then be released during peak demand periods and can help stabilise grid frequencies, which prevents system crashes.
