Grid-tie inverters are used between local electrical power generators: solar panels, wind turbines, hydroelectric, and the grid. To inject electrical power efficiently and safely into the grid, grid-tie inverters must accurately match the voltage and phase of the grid sine wave AC waveform.

Wind generators are designed to extract a percentage of this kinetic energy from the moving air and convert it to electricity. The StealthGen/D400 utilises a five air blade to capture energy from the wind, and the rotary

The Windmaster 500 is a grid tie inverter for use with small 48V wind turbine generators. Used for connecting a wind turbine to the household mains electricity supply, this inverter will convert wind turbine power (with an input voltage from 40 to 125 VDC) into up to 550 Watts of 240 VAC electricity synchronised with the mains supply.
